Crockett Law Corporation has been providing practical and independent legal advice and aggressive representation on court matters for over 30 years. Typical clients are individuals, property owners and business owners with legal and tax needs.

Clients are often referred to us because they are:

- Concerned about how to properly setup and run real estate and business enterprises to maximize legal protection, make money and minimize taxes;
- Desirous to have estate planning and asset protection to protect their families, stay out of probate court, and to cut down on taxes;
- Or are frustrated about being sued or feel they need to file a lawsuit to collect money or enforce business, real estate or estate rights they have.

This practice is uniquely suited to handling real estate, business, estate and tax problems for a couple of reasons. First, in addition to being an attorney graduated from UCLA Law School, Mr. Crockett has his undergraduate degree in business and accounting and is a Certified Public Accountant. This background and experience in law and accounting gives him the ability to understand, interpret, negotiate and create virtually every type of legal document or financial statement or tax return.

Second, Mr. Crockett has decades of experience in handling not only clients' affairs but also his own real estate including apartments and hotels. As a result, he understands the practical realities of running a business, borrowing large sums of money and working hard to stay out of legal and financial trouble. He also appreciates that people are not excited about spending money on legal services and want good value for their dollars spent on legal matters when it becomes necessary.
